

Masua Sagiv

Masua Sagiv is a Ph.D. Candidate at the Tel Aviv University Faculty of Law. Her dissertation, written under the supervision of Prof. Leora Bilsky and Prof. Menachem Mautenr, explores the endeavors of Israeli religious feminism to promote social change through the law. Masua is a research scholar at the Zvi Meitar Center for Advanced Legal Studies. She also serves as a teaching assistant in regulation and legislation, and feminism and the law, at Tel Aviv University Faculty of Law.

Masua acquired her LL.B. (Magna Cum Laude) in Law and Political Science from Bar Ilan University (2009), and her LL.M. (With Honors) from Columbia University School of Law, N.Y. (2011), where she also obtained the Parker School of Foreign and Comparative Law Certificate (2011). Her areas of research are law and religion, law and society, feminism, and family law.